

Annual GMP|company

Updating is key to success in your life science organisation

Get documentation of maintained GMP knowledge, insight into current GMP trends, and the opportunity to exchange experience within your organisation.

About the course

Read the ebenfits of an in-company course.

In a GMP-regulated organisation, all relevant employees are required to complete regular refreshers on GMP requirements.

In this course, your organisation's employees will receive a GMP brush-up to ensure a clear and shared understanding of current requirements and how compliance is maintained in daily operations.

The course helps establish a common GMP foundation across functions and departments, supporting a consistent approach to compliance.

By participating in this course, your organisation will gain:

- Documentation that GMP knowledge is maintained across relevant employees.
- Clarity on requirements for day-to-day compliance within your organisation.
- Insight into current GMP trends and regulatory focus areas.

We focus on key and current topics such as documentation, good documentation practice, deviations and CAPA, production, cross-contamination, as well as GMP mindset and quality culture.

Examples and discussions can be linked to your organisation's own processes and daily practice, making the training directly relevant to participants.

Participants will strengthen their understanding of their responsibilities in daily practice and the importance of consistent compliance to ensure correct product quality.

We also review trends in life science, providing insight into authorities' focus areas and industry experience relevant to your organisation.

Sign-up

Course

Annual GMP|company

Format

1 day in-company

Choose date and sign up

Hillerød 31. dec – 31. dec. 2040

The course further offers the opportunity to exchange knowledge and experience within your organisation and across roles in life science, creating a shared basis for continuous improvement and collaboration.

Target group

This course is for those working within GMP areas who need a course to refresh GMP requirements for production and documentation.

The course is also relevant for managers who need to provide their employees with the annual GMP course.

What you gain

Benefits for employees

- You are updated on the GMP requirements.
- You help maintain a high quality level.
- You help ensure compliance in your area.

Benefits for the organisation

- Employees can document updated GMP knowledge.
- Employees understands the necessity of compliance with GMP regulations.
- Employees has knowledge of the latest trends.

Course program

09:00 – 16:00

- GMP requirements
- Documentation
- Production
- GMP Mindset

The course is a mix of theory and tasks where participants work with the topics.